

Heather Gregg, NP

Heather received a bachelor's degree in nursing from Indiana University in 2000. She worked as an operating room nurse, specializing in orthopedics for several years. She did some travel nursing and worked in several level I trauma centers. In 2008, she began working as private staff for an orthopedic trauma surgeon and continued working with him for eight years. During that time she went back to school and obtained a master's degree in nursing, also from Indiana University. She is certified as an adult geriatric primary care nurse practitioner. Heather has over 11 years of experience working at OrthoIndy.

In her free time, she enjoys going to concerts with her husband, photography and spending time with her two daughters.
